Natural Stone Disclaimer

Customer Note:

Stone is a natural product and as such contains variations in color, veining and shading. Some stone will contain inclusions, pits or fissures as a result of its geological formation. These are not flaws and material containing them will be fabricated as a quality product. Samples are used as a representation of the final product and will not be an exact match. When and where the product is quarried will affect color. This form is to make you aware of the product you are purchasing. Standard industry techniques are employed in the fabrication of this product; for example: sink centerlines, sink set back, faucet drills and overhangs. Any alterations to these and other standards not mentioned must be addressed in writing, or specifically shown on a scaled plan prior to fabrication. Alterations from the "standard" may affect final cost.

I understand and accept the above as the end user of said product.
